

Membership

Anyone interested in the Nebraska branch of the International Dyslexia Association \(IDA\) and its mission can become a member, including individuals with dyslexia and their families, educators, school administrators, college students studying to become teachers, researchers, physicians, psychologists, institutions, organizations, businesses and policy makers, to name a few.

Benefits

- InSights newsletter with ideas and solutions for identifying reading difficulties and teaching reading skills, announcements about conferences and workshops, and resources for teachers.
- Perspectives, a quarterly publication of the International Dyslexia Association that includes articles by professionals in the field, including a special section for parents.
- Annals of Dyslexia, an annual, peer-reviewed journal from the International Dyslexia Association.
- Discounts on International Dyslexia Association publications, workshops and conferences.
- Special notices of timely information.
- Access to a network of professionals.
- Advertising opportunities for non-profit and for-profit member organizations.

Membership Fees

Various membership categories are available. See the International Dyslexia Association Membership Form for more details.

Family	$110
Individual	$ 70
College students	$ 40
Retired (65+)	$ 45
Non-profit Business	$395
For-profit Business	$295-795

To join, submit the completed membership form and fee to the International Dyslexia Association, 8600 LaSalle Road, Chester Building, Suite 382, Baltimore, Maryland 21286-2044. You'll receive a payment acknowledgement and member packet within 14 days.